Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Monday 20 Dec 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Rather cloudy, some bright or sunny spells later.

Today:
Cloudy again for many, though cloud may begin to break during the day with some sunshine as slightly cooler conditions spread in from the east. Breezy in far southwest.

Tonight:
Rather cloudy with some clear periods developing over England and Wales leading to a cold night with widespread frost and a few fog patches.

Tuesday:
Rather cloudy, but a better chance of seeing bigger breaks and some sunshine across central and southern Britain than previous days. Some drizzle possible at times in far north/northwest.

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:
A more unsettled period with rain, stronger winds, hill snow in the north, and possibly snow to lower levels later, mixed with brief settled spells. Mild south, colder in north.
